

1. It is something that manages the hardware component and allows program focus on the task.
2. It is something that connects user software to the hardware.
3. It is something that allows you program in there.
4. Advantage: easier to read and edit
Disadvantage: less efficient.